(Special to Record-Herald)

MARTINEZ, Dec. 14.—Constable Lowe of Walnut Creek was instructed by the grand jury at the close of its session last night to arrest the proprietors of the Contra Costa Country club the first time they attempted to reopen their business.

DIAMOND THEFT IS JOKE SAYS ACCUSED

Squires and Ray J. Heacock in a boat at Bouldin island, near Stockton, last Monday, news has come from Stockton to the effect that four Italian fishermen, who are suspected of having knowledge of the occurrence, were arrested at 1 o'clock this morning at Pittsburg by a posse.

One of the prisoners, Antonio Lombardo, has a bullet wound in his right hand.

Two of the other men under arrest give the names of Frank and Joseph Favalero. The quartet was arrested in a house on the outskirts of Pittsburg.

Lombardo informed the officers that after the accidental discharge of his rifle he had sculled his boat from Honker bay, six miles from Pittsburg to that place. This work he said took six hours.

Late this afternoon Lombardo and the Favalero brothers were taken to Stockton by Sheriff Reicks where they will be held pending further information as to the murder of the two game wardens.

NO SENTRY BOX; GUARD CONTRACTS RHEUMATISM

Ryland G. Taylor was employed by the Hercules Powder company at $90 a month to help guard the big plant at Hercules. There were no sentry boxes. The Hercules company claims that Taylor has suffered no "industrial injury" within the meaning of the law.

J. P. Arnold with his live-wire bunch of "money-getters" are meeting with good success and sufficient funds will be forthcoming to meet the requirements of all the committees and the success of the affair is assured.

The carnival company which was given the contract for decorating the tunnel and wharf will produce some very elaborate effects and coupled with the bright colorings that will be used by the different civic and fraternal organizations in their booths that will occupy the entire length of the wharf on both sides, will present the most brilliant scene ever witnessed in Richmond.

The articles asked for were not written out, but were pictures representing them, evidently taken from some ladies' magazine.

POSTAL AUTHORITIES TO REMEDY BAD EVIL

The postal authorities of this city have received a letter from J. C. Koons, first assistant postmaster at Washington, D. C., asking cooperation in the matter of remedying the present evil of improperly addressed letters and packages.

The letter says: "The delivery of letters, especially in the large cities, is frequently delayed and often made impossible by the omission of an important part of the address, such as the street number, or room number when addressed to an office building. Not infrequently the name of the street is omitted, only the name of the post office and state being given."

"MAIL EARLY" IS ADVICE TO LOCAL PEOPLE FOR XMAS

"Mail your letters and Christmas packages early," is the advice to Richmond people from Assistant Postmaster Boynton.

In order to have your Christmas mail reach friends or relatives in the east on Christmas day or the day after it will be necessary for this mail to be deposited in the mail boxes not later than Saturday morning.

11 DAYS Until Christmas

"Shop early" is the slogan of the merchants and it should be the slogan of the buyers, for the early shoppers are the ones who get the best bargains and the best selection of goods.

In the latter days of the Christmas rush sales people become worn out and as they are human it is but natural they should be not so obliging and courteous as they were when they were pursuing an even routine day by day. Therefore do your holiday buying at once and don't put it off until the last minute.

If you are going to make your friends a present of your photo, call at the studio at once for your sitting. It may be you will be compelled to make a second call, and if so, then your work will be delayed until after the holidays. It is always safe to shop early.

DOCTORS OPERATE TO SAVE VICTIMS

One woman is dying and three other persons are suffering serious injuries as the result of an automobile turning over into a ditch near Clinton and San Pablo avenues last night.

Dying—Billie Sanford.

Injured—Nellie Cross, Louis Zola and A. H. Jhrorso.

The Sanford woman is suffering from a fractured skull, a fractured jaw, spinal and internal injuries. Doctors say her recovery is slight.

WERE SPEEDING.

Police say that the accident resulted from the terrific speed at which the party were traveling. Jhrorso, who was driving the car attempted to turn San Pablo avenue into the boulevard which leads through the Burg tract when the machine overturned. All of the members were pinned beneath it.

RUSHED TO HOSPITAL.

Conductor C. E. Phelps and Motorman E. S. Golder of an East Richmond car, passed the spot a few seconds after the accident and carried the passengers to their car which rushed them to Twenty-third street and Macdonald avenue where they were taken to the Abbott emergency hospital.

WOMEN FROM STEGE.

Jhrorso, the least injured of the party, stated all of the members to have been from Stege. From descriptions given him today of the Sanford and Cross women, Judge A. H. MacKinnon, of Stege, is of the opinion that they were the two women whom he imposed a six-months' suspended sentence on yesterday for traveling around to Stege roadhouses. The women were given a short time to leave the county by the judge and promised to do so.

The Sanford woman, after the sentence had been imposed upon her, asked permission to obtain employment at the Stege cap works. This request was granted her providing she stay away from roadhouses.

Drs. U. S. and C. L. Abbott today operated on the Sanford woman in an effort to save her life. She is said to be about 23 years of age. The Cross woman and Louis Zola have fractured jaws and lacerations about the face, chest and arms.

Doctors called to attend the victims when they were brought to the Abbott emergency hospital were H. L. Carpenter, W. E. Cunningham and Walter Smallwood.

FISH COMMISSION IS THROUGH WITH WORK

The California Fish and Game Commission today finished its work of placing 27,000 steelhead in the various county streams. Other counties in which the commission has been quite active preparing for the rodster's enjoyment are Alameda, 144,000 steelhead; Lake county, 46,000 rainbow trout, 48,000 eastern brook trout, 148,000 steelhead; Marin county, 6000 eastern brook trout and 120,000 steelhead; Napa, 2600 rainbow trout and 135,000 steelhead; Santa Cruz, 495,000 steelhead.

There is no reason to believe that the counties in the vicinity of San Francisco are not getting a square deal from the commission, as, perhaps, the pessimistic sportsmen would wail. The steelhead in coast streams have ten chances for life where a trout in a mountain stream or lake has one.

ATTORNEYS FOR WALL WILL SEEK TO RESTRAIN COUNCIL FROM MOVE

Attorney W. H. H. Hart, head of the battery of legal advisers retained by George S. Wall in his fight to prevent the moving of the city hall, is preparing to seek a restraining order to stop the city council from moving to its new headquarters in the Nicholl city hall on December 26.

The action on the part of the Wall attorneys follows the passing of a resolution by the city council Monday night at which time the official city headquarters were established at 2555 Nevin avenue.

The restraining order against the city council will be asked owing to the fact that the case which was recently appealed from the superior court is at the present time pending before the supreme court.

CLUB LADIES ANXIOUS TO RECEIVE PRESENTS TO FILL XMAS STOCKINGS

Inspite of the present high prices on everything in the way of foodstuffs and clothes, the ladies of the Civic Center club have managed to secure a vast quantity of presents to be used in filling Christmas stockings for the poor. The merchants of this city are requested by the ladies to assist in any way possible toward gifts of any kind which will help fill the Christmas stockings.

AWAKENING OF RUSSIA

The commercial conquests of the peace that will follow the war will be on as colossal a scale as the war itself. Almost half of the world will have to be rebuilt. Structually, Europe will have a new birth. In Russia there is bound to be a mighty awakening. For centuries it has been mostly winter for the Russian bear, and he has been sleeping or only half awake. The war has aroused him as never before.

The commercial conquest of Russia will bring billions to the conquerors. In innumerable ways, it is an Aladdin's lamp. When the war is over we shall see there a wonderful "exchange of old lamps for the new," but the result will be quite different from that experienced by Aladdin.

Advance business emissaries are preparing for commerical invasion of Russia from Great Britain, France Germany and Japan. It would seem good business foresight for the captains of industry of the United States to do likewise.

But as Richard Washburn Child says in a recent issue of Everybody's magazine, "Amercans have no international sense." In the United States, as Mr. Child points out, there are about thirty persons to the square mile. In Russia, however, there are only eighteen to the square mile. In the United States more than half of the people live in towns. In Russia more than eighty-five per cent live in the rural districts or small rural vilages where the tillers of the soil make their homes.

"Russia's soil hides the richest mineral deposits on the globe," he says. It is estimated that Russia owns coal deposits of more than two hundred and fifty billion tons. Russia is a world's timber supply. Including Siberia, the Russian government owns nine hundred million acres of woods, most of it the best timber imaginable. The iron ore of the empire has scarcely been touched. The same is true of the oil.

Russia, according to Mr. Child, is practically an undeveloped continent. There is only one mile of railroad to every 180 square miles of territory. Practically everything in Russia, under ground and above ground, needs to be devoloped, modernized and financed.

If Germany and France, with the great war on their hands, can find time to figure on the post-bellum business of Russia, now, it would seem that American business agents ought to get busy as well.

American manufactured articles are not as popular in Russia as they should be, because American manufacturers have not taken the trouble to studyRussian needs, bnt endeavor to sell what they have, rather than what the Russians want.

On the other hand Germany made it a point before the war, as it did in South America, to make what the people want, and Germany controlled about half of the trade of Russia.

But if the United States is going after its share of the riches Russia will pour out, our salesmen must speak the Russian language, and letters must be written in Russian. Our colleges and universities now teach Spanish generally, whereas, of the modern languages, they formerly taught only German and French. But the need of courses in the Russian language is almost as insistent as in the Spanish, and fare more necessary than either French of German.

If America wishes to participate in the commercial awakening of Russia, the opportunity soon will be waiting, but those who get the business and the resultant millions will not only have to have "international sense," but they will have to have appreciation of Russia, its people and their needs.

New ideas in business are constantly springing into existance. And most of them spring out again.

The Cleveland editor who wrote: "A house divided against itself cannot stand," said Abraham Lincoln," needs to read his Bible and the life of Lincoln.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES AND NEWS

THE "BUCK" STUDIO

One of the most important branches of work now being done outside or academic work at the High School is that of the Photographic department under the direction of Norman Woodford. This department now boasts a finely equipped darkroom and a variety of apparatus, with which it is turning out some excellent work. Besides the regular developing and printing work done for the students at the regular prices, the studio has recently put out, in conjunction with the Drawing department, the attractive posters that are advertising a number of important basket ball games to be held here. Some particularly fine work was noted recently on the wall below the gallery at the gym, in the enlargements of a number of athletic stars of past and present fame. The studio gets its name from its founder, "Buck Hadley, famous here several years ago for his clever cartoons.

BOY'S BASKETBALL

A most exciting game of basket ball is promised when the bay's team clashes with the strong team of Berkeley high at the high gym, Thursday afternoon. Our team, under Captain Jones has been practicing faithfully, and is in high spirits over the expected victory. Anyone interested in a good, fast game of basketball should not miss this spectacular contest.

FANCY DRESS IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, December 12.—The Ten Allies Ball at the Garden struck a new note in November festivities, like nothing ever before given here. Guests came from all over the country even from far away San Francisco, and the list of box holders read like an expurgated Society blue list.

Just at the stroke of twelve the floor was cleared for the wonderful Durbar procession, that borrowed color and richness of detail from India, and picturesqueness from everywhere. Actors and society people vied with one another to make this pageant a thing to be remembered and the magnificently attired throng that looked on, wore more jewels than were seen the opening night at the Metropolitan Opera house.

THE ORIENTAL NOTE

Naturally the majority of the costumes were Oriental and as the shops are filled with all sorts of glittering materials and trimmings, the fashioning of these was not difficult, while for people who failed to supply fancy dress the managers had domino rigs, that were sold at a reasonable figure and added quite an appreciable amount to the receipts. The present fad for the Turkish hem on evening frocks, which gives a softly draped line at the foot of the skirt, suggesting the gathered harem trouser, was utilized by many people. When hip draperies of fantastic sort were added, and veils or jewelled turbans with pendant chin straps of sequins, beads etc. were worn, the effect was quite Eastern enough to pass muster.

DONKEY BOYS AND NURSES

One of the prominent patronesse of the ball appeared as an Egyptian "Donkey Boy", and there was a large contingent of trained nurses whose custume carries them anywhere, where the Ten Allies are active.

GREENWICH VILLAGE DANCE

Down in New York's Latin quarter where artists and their numerous Allies foregather, a smaller fancy dress ball was given a few nights later, that if anything outdid the Garden show in picturesqueness, and esprit. With this lead it is safe to predict a wave of fancy dress affairs all over the country that will turn people's attention toward the effects achieved with this medium, and freshen the enjoyment of many people by getting away from the stereotyped forms of entertainment. There is always some danger of undesirable, or uninvited guests at these places, and at the Garden dance especially, a large corps of detectives in plain and fancy dress, watched the wearers of expensive jewels. Imitation ornaments are safe and perfectly allowable on such occasions, and for invitation affairs, everyone can be identified so that there is small danger of stealing.

MAGNIFICIENT WRAPS

The magnificence of the evening wraps worn this Winter, adapted them perfectly to gorgeous Durbar toilets. Nothing can be imagined richer in color, texture, or trimmings than the wraps worn at any prominent evening affair here. Chiffon velvets, satins brocaded in silver or gold and costly furs make the more notable garments of this sort, and the average woman cares rather more for the effect of her wrap than for the dress it covers.

ROSALIND MAY

"STRANGLER" LEWIS WINS FROM AD SANTEL

That the wrestling game has made a comeback on the Pacific coast and especially in San Francisco was fully demonstrated last night by the large crowd which saw "Stranger" Lewis defeat Ad Santel at the Civic auditorium.

The average San Francisco fan considered Santel invincible, but the wise ones were offering 2 to 1 on the chances of Lewis. Very few contests between mat gladiators in San Francisco ever created more excitement than that of last night.

Owing to certain rules agreed upon prior to the match it was necessary for both men to work their limit in order to secure a decision. No stalling was to be tolerated. Lewis pinned his smaller opponent to the mat in one hour and 42 minutes. Santel in an effort to stave off defeat used every known device permitted in the wrestling game. He secured several toe-holds on Lewis which caused the "Stranger" to wince from the pain and also used the wicked face hold.

Lewis is now in line for a match with Joe Stecher for the world's championship.

NOTES FROM THE PLAYHOUSES

OAKLAND ORPHEUM

Character portrayals of feminine types by mere man have generally depended on two things—the ability of the man to wear feminine clothes, and a freakish or falsetto voice. But, from the days of "Charley's Aunt," the fact seems to have been lost sight of in vaudeville that all women are not beautiful and all women do not sing and that the field was still open for a feminine comedy characterization.

It remained for a young man named Bert Savoy, now at the Oakland Orpheum, to discover what was lacking in vaudeville, and, being in the theatrical business with Broadway as his habitat, when he looked around for a type of comedy feminine, it was quite natural that he should pick upon the chorus girls as the subject for his proposed burlesque. He was thoroughly familiar with the character and he felt that he knew just how much he could exaggerate the type for it to have a strong comedy appeal to vaudeville patrons

While the idea was still fertilizing, it so chanced that he and his friend, Jay Brennan, saw a chorus arguing with a ticket speculator one evening on Broadway. The combination was so typical of the rialto that it was irresistable, and Brennan, who had a reputation as a "juvenile," to use the Broadway expression, felt that he could easily assume the role of the ticket speculator who, in this instance was not such a pest as he was pestered.

The girl, as wise to the night life as he, was alternately arguing and flirting with him, and Savoy and Brennan decided to take this situation for the basis of their vaudeville act.

Their success was tremendous from the outset. The two boys became famous overnight for their characterizations and they received several production offers. In one day they had offers to join Ziegfeld's Midnight Frolic in New York and also a Winter Garden company. They decided on the latter, rehearsed with the show but before it opened they had a disagreement with the management and then decided that vaudeville was the more reliable field after all.

The Orpheum circuit management was quick to offer them a route that will keep them busy the greater part of this season.

FLORAL PIECES AND PSALMS; GRACE IS GONE

The last of the stern wheel steamers Grace Barton in on the river bank. She was built in San Francisco 26 years ago for the American Salt works, and named after the daughter of the president of the works. Later she was used as a passenger steamer on the Vallejo route, and since has had every river route in these waters. For some time she was on the run between Oakland and San Francisco, as a freighter, but there were too many vessels in that business and she was tied up in East Oakland. A few weeks ago a moving picture firm purchased the Barton and removed her engines and boilers. She was then named the Ferry Belle, and was towed to Cache creek, nine miles above Rio Vista, where she was blown up, and burned to the waters' edge.
